"WONDER CHILD" HEARD ON CHARGE OF MURDER

Lass Of Seventeen, Believed By Thousands To Be A Hypnotist, Accused Of Shooting Sweetheart.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Hanover, N. H., May 19.—"What weird hypnotic power is possessed by this girl?" This is the question that all the people of this section have been asking in regard to Ethel Sturtevant, a 17-year-old girl, who was given on a preliminary hearing at Haverhill today on a charge of being implicated in the shooting of her sweetheart, Jesse Barden.

Whatever the outcome of the case may be it will be a long time before the neighborhood ceases to talk of "the Wonder Child," as the girl is called. Her mother, whose mysterious death three years ago, with the ensuing request brought Ethel first before the public gaze, declared that the girl had been poisoned; others claimed that she had been hypnotized, but medical men, though puzzled, clung to the theory that she was afflicted with some disease akin to epilepsy.

Sinking into strange hypnotic trances and evoking poetry and prose on subjects far beyond her sane ken, again dreaming placidly and afterward avowing she had spoken with spirits; at other times writhing in horrible convulsions, cursing, tearing her hair and often attempting suicide, the strange child seemed to be dominated by some fiendish mentality. In her normal state she was clever, though not precocious, bright and winsome. The circumstances surrounding the shooting which has again brought her into the limelight are as mysterious as the other facts which have marked her young life. The shooting took place some three weeks ago, the victim being Jesse Barden, a young farmer-boy who had paid to court to Miss Ethel. He turned up at his home with a bullet embedded in his lung. For a week or more his life was despaired of. He accused his sweetheart of the crime, while she stoutly denied it. She was arrested, and on the long night ride to the county prison, the unusual girl joked and twitted the sheriff and appeared to be in the highest spirits. There is a general feeling that the girl will be dismissed and let free to further mystify the community with her weird and inexplicable powers.

AGAIN ENDEAVORING TO MAKE COLUMBUS SAINT

Campaign Being Actively Taken Up By Arch-Bishop Of Turin--Today Anniversary Of Death.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Rome, May 19.—Tomorrow will be the 400th anniversary of the death of Christopher Columbus. It was on May 20, 1506, that the discoverer of the New World breathed his last in the town of Valladolid, Spain, after partaking of the holy sacrament, and uttering these words: "Into Thy hands, O Lord, I commit my spirit."
With the approach of this anniversary, has come a revival of the movement to place the name of Columbus in the catalogue of saints, or in other words, to canonize him. This movement began in earnest in 1892, the 400th anniversary of the discovery of America, at which time great pressure was brought to bear on the college of cardinals to induce them to take action in the matter. A petition signed by several millions of people in nearly every civilized country, and including many of the highest dignitaries of the church, was presented to the sacred college.

But the cardinals of the curia decided at that time that the father of an illegitimate son could not possibly be a saint. This objection refers to the relations of Columbus with Beatrice Enriquez, daughter of an innkeeper at Cordova, whose acquaintance he made while stopping in her father's house, awaiting the answer of the court to his petition for aid to make the voyage to find the western passage to India. Columbus fell in love with the young woman, and she became the mother of his son Fernando. A book has been written to prove that they were legally married, but this evidence was rejected as not satisfactory by the congregation of rites in 1892.

Now the movement has been revived by the archbishop of Turin and other Italian ecclesiastics, who have asked for the reconsideration of the case. There are good prospects that the movement will meet with success in the course of time. The strongest argument in favor of the admission of Columbus to the calendar of saints is that he was an instrument of Providence in opening the Western hemisphere to civilization and Christianity. Another argument is that in his will he bequeathed the greater part of his estate to the rescue of the holy sepulcher and the conversion of the world.

The steps of canonization are many and much time is required before the final stage is reached. The importance of the ceremony may be understood when it is stated that it is deemed to be "the public judgment of the Apostolic See respecting the holiness and glory of one who is thereupon enrolled among the saints." It is declared that the person thus honored led a perfect life and that God worked miracles at his intercession, either during his life or after his death, and that subsequently he is worthy to be honored as a saint, to invoke him and to celebrate mass and an office in his honor.

Of saints by Pope decrees the number is comparatively small. Up to the time of Pius IX. there were only 115 Papal canonizations, and under the long pontificate of the late Pope Leo there were fewer than a dozen.

A condition precedent to canonization is beatification. This consists of fourteen distinct steps. The candidate must be one who is alleged to have practiced in life in a heroic degree faith, hope and charity. The first step is the Bishop's inquiry, which is made as exhaustive as possible to ascertain whether the person was eminent in the exercise of those virtues. Then comes an inquiry as to whether there has ever been any cultus. The next step is a report on these points to the secretary of the congregation of rites. The fourth step is the opening of this report and the presentation of a formal request that the person be called blessed. Next after this a "Promotor Fidei" is appointed by the Pope. It is the duty of this officer to urge all the objections that he can find against the candidate for the honor. The sixth step is a minute examination of all the writings of the one for whom beatification is sought, and then the congregation of rites proceeds to an investigation of the miracles said to have been performed. An interval of ten years must elapse between this and the next stage of the procedure, the appointment of three bishops or high functionaries to review the work of the examiners into the miraculous deeds.

Their report is the next move and this is followed by the arguments of the secretary of the congregation and "Promotor Fidei." Then the final report, if favorable, is read at three general assemblies of the congregation. At the last assembly the Pope himself is present and renders his decision. Then there is a general congregation, held at the Vatican, the briefs are read, the Te Deum chanted, the images or pictures on the altar are unveiled and incensed and the new collect is read.

Before the beatified can be canonized at least two miracles must have been performed. The name of the beatified one is then presented again to three congregations at the last of which the final ceremonies take place. These various stages sometimes extend over centuries, so that there is little chance of the present generation ever being able to invoke the blessing of "Saint Columbus."

First Train, Bearing Victor Emmanuel and Suite, Passed Through Today.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Milan, May 19.—After seven years' work, the famous Simplon Tunnel is now an accomplished fact. Today the first official train, containing King Victor Emmanuel and his suite, passed through the tunnel from Iselle to Brig, where it was met by the Swiss authorities. Monday next the ordinary service between Lausanne and this city will be inaugurated. The Simplon Tunnel is one of the greatest of modern triumphs on the part of science and engineering skill and ingenuity. The work has cost over $15,500,000. One terminus of the tunnel is at Brig, in the Rhone Valley, and the other at Iselle, in Italy. It consists of two tunnels, only one of which will at present be used for trains, the second serving the purpose of a ventilating shaft, through which 1800 cubic feet of air can be passed every second, bringing the temperature down to 77 degrees Fahrenheit.

FAIRBANKS TO THE METHODISTS

SOUTHERN CONFERENCE.

CHURCH KEPT NATION'S PACE

He Was Fraternal Delegate Representing the Laymen of Methodist Episcopal Society.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Birmingham, Alabama, May 19.—One of the interesting events of the year was the meeting of the General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, Vice President Fairbanks was chosen by the Bishops of the Methodist Church as a fraternal delegate representing the laymen of the Methodist Episcopal Church. In extending his greetings, last night, the Vice President said:

Mr. Chairmen and Brethren: I am commissioned with my colleague to bring you the fraternal greetings of the Methodist Episcopal church. It is with great pleasure we have come to fulfill this friendly office, for we realize that while you and we are all engaged in different organizations, our churches have an affinity for each other which time and events serve greatly to strengthen. We feel a pride in each other's achievements. We regard your victories as ours and ours as yours. The heart of Methodism everywhere is moved by a common impulse. It is inspired by the same high hopes and the same exalted aspirations. We come in no perturbed spirit. We come with hearty good will, bearing the high commission of your brethren in the church which derives its life from the same source which gives vitality to yours. Our churches are well called great in numbers, great in the noble men who have thoroughly consecrated themselves to their advancement, great in the work they have accomplished, great in their influence for good among men.

The Methodist church in the United States has kept pace with our tremendous national development. In less than one century and a half it has grown so that more than six million communicants are now enrolled in all its branches. Methodism was never more a vital factor than now, and there was never more need of its degree work will be followed by a discipline and "genuine apostolic spirit" in the upbuilding of a great religious community than there is in this hour. It is a positive, conservative force, aggressive in its beneficial influence, making humanity and the world better. From the time of the immortal John Wesley until now, it has been a militant church. It has stood upon the frontier battling for justice and righteousness. It has pushed forward against the powers of darkness and evil, and planted its banners in the remotest parts of the earth. Wherever it goes it carries the torch of a higher civilization. It is in the best sense a democratic church, working among the great masses of the people, lifting the lowly to better conditions. Its hospitable doors must always open to those in lowly places as well as to those who are in higher spheres. The field of its activities is as broad as the need of our poor humanity. Its dominion is among all peoples. Men are not too low to be beyond the reach of its ministrations. It seeks to elevate

GENERAL ARTHUR H. PAGET IS PROMOTED

British Army Officer Who Wedded American Girl Is Advanced to Lieutenant Generalship.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

London, May 19.—Americans doubtless have been pleased to learn this week of the promotion of Major General Arthur Henry Paget (whose wife was Mary Stevens, daughter of the late Parson Stevens of New York) to lieutenant general. General Paget is one of the most popular officers in the army and his wife is one of the most popular of Anglo-American hostesses. The eldest son of the late General Lord Alfred Paget, General Arthur Paget's military career has been exceedingly distinguished. Five years before his marriage he had received his baptism of fire in the Ashantee War, and he has taken part in every important conflict in which his country has engaged during the last thirty-five years, including the South African War. The marriage of Miss Mary Parson Stevens to the brilliant young soldier who is now known as Lieutenant General Arthur Paget took place twenty-eight years ago, and introduced the brilliant young American girl into the most exclusive circle of English society. Mrs. Paget is a wonderful woman, daring, original, talented—a social success. In her girlhood she was the leader of "The Bouncers," a set of pretty girls of long ago who were given additional fame by the clever pen of the late Lawrence Oliphant. She inherited a large fortune from her father. Her position in English society was assured from the start, and she has always been prominent in the bazaars and other affairs got up for the British army. The King is godfather to her eldest child, and both their majesties have always shown the beautiful and clever American hostess marked favor and sympathy. The King often being her guest in London at dinner.

FOREST FIRES SURROUND CITY

Wausauke Is Reported As Entirely Hemmed
In By The Blazing Forests.

REPORT FROM MICHIGAN DISTRICTS

Cedarville Is Also Fire-Swept--Many Homesteaders Are Thought To Have Perished In The Flames.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Wausauke, Wis., May 19.—Forest fires have completely hemmed in Wausauke and millions of feet of lumber have already been burned, the loss financially reaching into the hundreds of thousands of dollars. The town itself is in no immediate danger, but the loss to standing timber and the possibility of sparks blowing onto roofs is very great.

At Cedarville
At Cedarville the fires have destroyed many cars loaded with lumber that were standing on the tracks and the big kilns and piles of fine cedar timber have been destroyed. All trains are being held here, as the rails have become twisted from the heat and it is not safe to allow them to proceed.

From Escanaba
Escanaba, Mich., May 19.—The damage thus far done by the forest fires in this vicinity briefly epitomized as far as possible owing to the interruption in communication is as follows: Ralph—Town of a hundred people, almost wiped out.

Alfred—Population of two hundred, every house and huge piles of logs burned.

Alvoise—Population of four hundred; boarding-house, railway station, big stores, logs and ties destroyed.

Quinnville—Population one hundred, entirely destroyed, residents homeless.

Cornell—Population all but one store burned.

burned 300 homesteads. Northland—Mill and six hundred houses burned; many without food or shelter.

Anticline—Mining town, houses and ore and lumber mills burned, boarding houses destroyed and all but a few of the seven hundred people homeless.

Railway Losses
On the Belt branch of the North Western, all the bridges are burned. Scores of homesteaders in this district are entirely burned out and the loss of life, it is feared, will be large. On the Northland branch of the Es canaba and Lake Superior railway five million feet of cut logs were burned, bridges are down and road is tied up for weeks to come.

District Afflicted
Menominee, Delta, Dickinson, Schoolcraft and Marquette counties will bear the brunt of the losses. Three trainloads of homeless people have already arrived in Escanaba. Thousands of others are believed to be homeless and suffering from lack of food, clothing and other necessities.

Dying Out
Reports this morning indicate that the fires were dying down in many places and that the wind has changed so that such towns as Escanaba, Marquette and larger places in the district are out of danger.

WILL NOT PROSECUTE ON BASIS OF EXPOSURE MADE

District Attorney Gilbert Of Dane County, Decides Not To Follow Up Suit.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., May 19.—There will be no criminal prosecutions as a result of the exposure made by Insurance Commissioner Host against Secretary of State Walter L. Houser before the legislative insurance investigating committee in Milwaukee. This has been the result of the examination of the incident made by District Attorney F. L. Gilbert. "It is given out that no criminal prosecution will be attempted because it would be impossible to secure conviction on the evidence available. It is said that the real reason why District Attorney Gilbert will not put the wheels of the criminal law in motion is that he is a candidate for the republican nomination for attorney general and his friends have advised him that for him to take such action against the 'fat frier' of the La Follette machine would appear like persecution in Gilbert's own political interests. Another reason for the abandonment of the plan of criminal prosecution is that Insurance Commissioner Host is not inclined to swear out a complaint. He was subpoenaed by the investigating committee, and declares that otherwise he would never have gone out of his way to tell tales against Secretary Houser. It is said that he recognizes that it was not nice for him to tell about Houser's alleged attempt to buy for the Equitable a favorable surplus distribution from Host for a $2,000 contribution to the La Follette campaign fund after Mr. Host had kept the incident covered up for a year or two and had been one of the beneficiaries of the political advantage secured through the success of the La Follette ticket. However, the moral effect of the exposure is being felt and it appears that unless a reaction against Commissioner Host sets in, as predicted by the friends of Secretary of State Houser, the latter will be a 'dead one' politically in this state.

HIGH SCHOOL CLOSES IN NEXT FIVE DAYS

Seniors Who Stand Above Eighty-Five
Will Practically Graduate Soon.

Those Seniors of the High School who have no back work and have a standing of 85 per cent in their studies will finish their work on the afternoon of Friday, May 25th. This means only five more days of school for the Senior Class. Those, however, that have not attained the 85 per cent will have to come back Monday and Tuesday next to take tests in those studies that they are not up in. Graduation comes on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, the 12th, 13th and 14th of next month. This gives the Seniors two weeks in which to prepare for their respective parts at graduation. The program has been completed and all the students are working hard on their portions. At a meeting held after school yesterday the motto of the Class of '06 was chosen and is: "Today we anchor; tomorrow we sail." The invitations were also selected and will be furnished by a Milwaukee firm. The class song will be commenced Monday under the instruction of Mrs. Georgia Hyde, instructor of music, in the schools. As the hours are now regulated in the high school, that is, commencing school at eight and letting out at 2:30, it gives the Seniors more time to devote to their graduation plans and also gives them the same amount of time for school work. The token has been ordered and will be here in one time for the delivery. As school always draws nearer a close

Special Gave No Hope
John Dugan, whose eyes were scared by flying particles of hot iron at the New Dot Works, has returned from Milwaukee, where he consulted a specialist. The latter could give him no encouragement that he would ever be able to see again.

ART AND DESIGN
FOR PEDAGOGUES

NEW DEPARTMENT AT UNIVER-

SITY SUMMER SCHOOL.

OTHER NEWS FROM MADISON

Edwin Booth Dramatic Club to Perform 'For Benefit of Social Settlement League.

Madison, Wis., May 19.—An important addition is to be made to the courses for teachers at the University of Wisconsin summer session in the form of courses in art and design.

The demand for teachers prepared to give instruction in drawing, and the success of the special course in manual training established last year, have resulted in the development of this new department. The work in art and design will be in charge of Prof. E. J.

Lake of the department of art and design of the University of Illinois.

Prof. Lake's long experience in conducting teachers' institutes in art and design work adapted for public schools makes him well qualified to take charge of this new department.

It is the intention to co-ordinate the instruction in manual training for teachers and the new work in drawing as closely as possible.

Drawing for Schools.

Lectures and practice work in drawing for public schools will include the theory and practice of the principles involved in art education for elementary and high schools. There will also be a course in free-hand drawing, consisting of a study of type forms in nature and art, with blackboard drawing, and outdoor sketching. A complete elementary course in descriptive geometry for manual training teachers and others, forms another important branch of the work.

For more advanced students instruction will be given in orthographic and isometric projections, shades and shadows, perspective, and tinting. The mechanical drawing includes the use of instruments, free-hand lettering, geometric constructions, simple working drawings, tracings, and blueprinting. Thus practically every phase of drawing from the first grades through the high school are to be included in the summer session curriculum.

Manual Training.

The courses in manual training for teachers and supervisors of this branch in public schools which were given for the first time last year, proved very successful, and will be

session. The work will be under the same direction as last year. Prof. L.

H. Burch of the Western Illinois

State Normal school, and Prof. J. D.

Phillips of the department of mechanical drawing of the University of Wisconsin being in charge. One part of the work in manual training is adapted to the needs of teachers and supervisors in the elementary schools, and consists of a study of the history, organization, and installation of manual training, with laboratory practice in the working of various materials such as paper, clay, wood, and iron. In addition to practice in the handicrafts, there are courses in elementary drawing, both mechanical and free-hand, so that the instruction in drawing and the manipulation of materials may be closely correlated.

The work in manual training for high school teachers consists of complete courses in mechanical drawing, the making of working drawings, lettering, and perspective, with advanced shop work in wood and metal working, pattern making, and moulding.

For Small Schools.

Methods of accomplishing effective work with small, inexpensive equipment will receive special consideration in the summer-school work. Particular attention will be given to the equipment necessary for small schools and to the methods of organizing class work in such schools. A seminary will be held under the direction of Professors Phillips, Burch and Lake, open to all students in manual training, and art and design, for the discussion of methods of instruction and correlation of these lines of work with the other studies in the school curriculum. The courses of manual training and in art and design will be open to students of the summer session of the college of letters and science, and of the summer school for artisans of the college of engineering, so that those registered in either of these schools may have the benefit of instruction in these branches with out extra expense.

Military Organization.

The first annual convention of the intercollegiate military organization,

Scabbard and Blade, was held at the University of Wisconsin last week.

Delegates from Cornell, the University of Minnesota, the University of Iowa, and the University of Wisconsin were present. The society was organized at the University of Wisconsin in March, 1905, and has since been extended to the other institutions. The purpose of the society is to bring together the officers of the student conduct regiments in the several institutions. The organization is secret, and the members are elected for efficiency in military drill and tactics.

The delegates present were: Lieut.

Col. O. J. Cloughan, Cornell; Maj.

William Dawson, Jr., University of Minnesota; Capt. W. D. Lovell, University of Iowa; and Maj. A. W. Foster, Milwaukee.

Social Settlement.

The University of Wisconsin Social

Settlement League has been organized among those interested in sociology and home problems. It will assist in the maintenance of the University of Wisconsin Settlement, established at Milwaukee some years ago, under University auspices by the Rev. H. H.

Jacobs, Wisconsin, '03. The regents of the university recently established a fellowship at sociology at the Milwaukee settlement, which has been awarded to Miss Winifred Salisbury,

Janesville, '01, Oregon. The Edwin

Booth dramatic club of the university for its annual production will give "A Bachelor's Romance" in Madison, May 25, and in Milwaukee May 29, for the benefit of the social settlement.

Hospital Fund.

The fund established with the proceeds of the benefit performance given

"Let thy mind still be bent, still plotting, where and when, and how thy business may be done. The sure traveler, though he alights sometimes, still goeth on."—Herbert.

WHY IS IT?

Why is it that so many people stay away from church on Sunday?

Why is it that the preacher's best effort fails to give him a full house every time he occupies the sacred desk?

Why is it that the churches are supported so reluctantly, when money is plenty and everybody is investing so freely in gold bricks?

Why is it that the Y. M. C. A. fails to capture the crowd of young men who infest the street corners every Sunday?

Why is it that the man who prays the longest and shouts the hardest, will frequently bear watching on a horse trade?

Why is it that profession is so much easier than possession?

Why is it that parlor poker is less demoralizing than card room poker?

Why is it that bridge whist with a little money at stake is more popular than the old fashioned game?

Why is it that any fool can ask questions while it takes a wise man to answer them?

OUR SATURDAY NIGHT

In his "heart-to-heart" talks in the last number of "The Philistine," Elbert Hubbard says some very terse things about education. He compares the boy to the young bird just ready to leave the nest, and claims that the mother bird long since made the discovery that the only way to learn to fly is to fly.

He says that "the boy of seventeen to nineteen has reached an age when he should wing his own way and seek his own sustenance, physical and mental," and then adds:

"Parental love often clings to him and insists that he shall be a Remittance Man—that is the name of education."

He contends that "the object of all education is to make the pupil independent of the teacher. Graduation should occur at the vanishing point of the tutor."

"The fledgling has learned to fly. The eagle bears her young upon her wings—but not forever. The eagle only bears them on her wings that she may let them drop and then compel them to fly."

He argues that the grade schools and modern high schools supply the keys that unlock all the good things in the world, and says: "Beyond this the parental love that would protect the boy for four years more in the name of the 'Higher Education' is a danger and a menace."

"If he works his own way, that is another matter. The exercise he puts forth to get an education is his reward. But parental love that makes the youth exempt from useful effort is too great a lapse for nature to overlook," and then he adds significantly:

"The way to earn a living is to go at it and earn it, and the man who cannot and does not earn his own living is a parasite—a burden to society. Moreover, the man who cannot and does not support himself—producing more than he consumes—is not an educated man, no matter how many college degrees he may possess."

"Marshall Field once gave this order to his manager, 'When you hire young men, give the preference to the high school graduate, aged eighteen, over the university graduate aged twenty-two. You can manage the boy of eighteen while the other calls himself a man,' and will often protest, inwardly at least, against many of the things that you will want done."

Then he concludes that:

"Most of the men in the great colleges are there because their parents have the price—victims of misdirected parental love—eagles, full fledged, carried by tussy old eagles, male and female, who set themselves against nature and haven't enough faith in God to let the youngster drop."

He sums up the argument by saying, "Your success in life does not hinge upon your having a college education."

Mr. Hubbard is abrupt in many of his statements, but he hews close to the line and is seldom accused of being impractical. Education as commonly defined means knowledge, and a practical education means knowledge applied.

The engine without the steam is as helpless as a motive power, as a box car, and with the steam, "unless intelligently applied, is not only helpless but dangerous."

So the young man with a head full of knowledge and his mind liberally equipped for the journey of life, is helpless, unless he possesses the ability to intelligently apply the knowledge.

It is a mistaken notion, entertained by many people, that a college man is necessarily an educated man. A large percentage of this class of men have been pensioners on the bounty of the home, and the diplomas they hold have been secured without sacrifice or financial struggle, and the wings which were intended for early flight have been dormant so long that they are practically useless.

When these men enter commercial life, at the foot of the ladder—and that is the only successful port of entry—they soon discover that they have much to learn about men and things, on which the text book was silent, and the practical education, frequently requires them to go back five years and take up the work of the boy.

This is the problem which confronts every college man who attempts to enter commercial life and this is why five years of his life might have been spent to better advantage in the great game of practical football, than on the college campus.

This, however, is no argument against a college education, except along the lines under discussion. For a professional or semi-professional life, a knowledge of text books and of the principles of science is necessary to success.

The common schools of the land, with the new century fads and attachments, are subject to more criticism than the higher institutions of learning, for they are the schools of the masses. These schools are sending out into life, year after year, a multitude of young people who are sadly deficient in the most common requirements.

A Chicago gentleman said to a friend, the other day, "I believe I will take my boy of fourteen out of school and set him to work for he isn't learning anything of practical benefit."

They, he continued, "I have a daughter who is said to be highly educated, in fact, she is highly educated. She is a graduate of the Chicago high school and of an eastern college. She can discuss Greek mythology fluently and ancient history, but her writing is like crows' tracks, her spelling is worse than phonetic, while her composition would drive a man to drink. She absolutely knows nothing that will ever help her to earn a dollar, and I don't want to see her brother develop into a cultured imbecile."

That may seem a little harsh, but it ought to be considered a crime to rob boys and girls of the only opportunity they will ever have to get something practical out of the school room.

Better the three months' winter school of olden time than the superficial school of today, so far as practical knowledge is concerned.

A good deal of fun is made nowadays about the three R's, but the fact remains that more than ninety per cent of the boys and girls in school never get beyond these foundation principles, and they are regarded by the schools as less important than botany and paper lamp shades.

A child comes home with a pad covered with words of one syllable. She has written the words, but don't know what they are, and is surprised when told that letters properly arranged make words. Is it any wonder that the child never learns to spell?

In another grade the abortion known as vertical penmanship is taught, and then we wonder why our children never learn to write. The force will be complete when phonetic spelling is well established.

It is about time that the rare gift of common sense gained a foothold in the common schools of the land. The children are entitled to a thorough knowledge of the fundamental principles of education, demanded in every department of life and they are sadly deficient today.

EXPERIMENTING WITH FOREIGN LABORERS

Rock County Sugar Company Imports Seventy-five Belgians for Sugar Fields.

If the present plans of the Rock County Sugar Company are successful the solving of the sugar beet problem for farmers will be assured. Under the direction of Elmer Seberlov, agricultural superintendent of the factory, some ninety expert sugar beet workers have been engaged and are being distributed among the farmers growing beets. Twenty-five Russians are already here and sixty-five Belgians will arrive on Monday next. These ninety men will be employed in cultivation of some seven hundred of the five thousand acres of sugar beets the company has contracted for the coming summer.

Mr. Seberlov believes that if the experiment is successful next year some four or five hundred similar laborers will be used in the territory adjacent to this factory alone. In Denmark, where Mr. Seberlov comes from it is customary to import expert labor for the sugar beet fields from Germany. The Belgians who are to come here on Monday are all expert workers and before coming to the United States used to work each summer in the French fields. The local factory has over four thousand acres of beets under contract in fourteen different countries.

ORGANIZE Y. M. C. A. ORCHESTRA SHORTLY

Musical Members of the Association Held Meeting Last Evening at Building.

Last evening at eight o'clock a meeting was held in the Y. M. C. A. building for the purpose of organizing an orchestra from the musical-inclined young men of the association.

The orchestra will be under the instruction of Mr. D. D. Bennett and with the talent which the young men have the organization will undoubtedly be a great success. Eight years ago the Y. M. C. A. was incorporated as a musical organization and shortly afterward the band was formed which was one of the best musical orders in the city. There is no reason why the present plan of an orchestra cannot accomplish what the band of that time did.

STOLE REFRESHMENTS THEN PAID FOR THEM

Would Be Thieves Caught and Made to Make Good Loss of the Banquet.

A crowd of Second Ward hoodlums broke into the kitchen of Mr. Albert Gramke, 3 Prairie avenue, last evening while a party was being held and helped themselves to the eatables that were prepared for the occasion. Some of the guests found out who the young men were and would have had the marauders punished if they had not made good the loss to Mr. Gramke with money out of their own pockets.

S. C. COBB BECAME ONE OF THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK DIRECTORS RECENTLY

Prominent Business Man Is Placed upon the Bank's Governing Board.

S. C. Cobb, one of Janesville's prominent business men for the past fifty years, has been elected a member of the board of directors of the First National Bank at a recent meeting of the directors of that institution.

Mr. Cobb came to Janesville fifty years ago this year and except for time he has spent visiting, Janesville has been his home continuously ever since.

ENTHUSIASM FOR A GENUINE MEET

HORSEMEN AND OTHERS ARE INTERESTED IN PROJECT.

WOULD RAISE PURSE NOW

Plan Three-Day Meet With $3,000 in Purse Hung up for Three Daily Races.

Janesville horsemen and horse-lovers have been stirred to their old-time enthusiasm by the recent horse show. They argue that if a horse show will draw fifteen hundred to two thousand people to the fair grounds a race meet will draw many more from outside for a three-day meet. The second, third and fourth of July have been suggested as suitable days for such a revival of the old-time sport that made Janesville famous the country over in past years.

Plan Is Feasible

The plan as projected at present is to hang up $3,000 in purses for a three-day race meet, have three races, a day for two three-hundred-dollar purses and one four-hundred-dollar purse each day. It is figured that there are enough good horses in Janesville, Beloit, Watertown and Madison, that are being trained for the summer and fall campaign that would be glad of a good tryout and would prove to be excellent material for an interesting meet. Then the size of the purses offered is large enough to attract some good ones from outside, who would be induced to come, as it would be before the opening of the regular trotting meets of the summer.

Are Enthusiastic

The plan originated at the fair grounds yesterday among some horsemen. They are most enthusiastic over the project and feel sure that the three thousand dollars for the purses could easily be pledged by thirty men and that the meet, including entries, privileges and admission receipts, would more than pay without having to draw on the pledges. They also figure that it would leave a surplus in the treasury for future meets should this prove successful. The large number of horses, good ones, that are being trained in the immediate vicinity of Janesville this summer would assure a good entry list of probably six to eight animals for each race. There would be nine races in all and the fourth of July series could be enhanced by some special features.

Needs Encouragement

The plan as yet is in embryo and needs encouragement. There was a time when the week's racing in Janesville filled every hotel in the city to overflowing and placed a premium on stable room for the animals entered. Janesville has a good track, a good grandstand and all it needs is good encouragement now to again start horse racing here. There would probably be but little trouble in securing the fair grounds for the events, as Mr. Bostwick appears to be willing to do all he can to encourage any project which promises a revival of interest in racing.

Dr. Cleophas

Dr. Cleophas, who was one of the judges at the horse show yesterday, is enthusiastic over the proposed three-day meet. Dr. Cleophas owns Axline, who was raced on the Western circuit last season, and he has also raised several fine colts, one of which he sold to James Hobart Moore of Chicago. This horse, King Cleo, registered No. 25,397, is to be entered in the Chicago Horse Shows as an expectant prize-winner.

Horton Had a Plan

If the fences at the fair grounds are repaired next month Colonel Horton plans to have the fourth celebration in Janesville. The big event of the day will, of course, be a race program in the afternoon, but there will be numerous other attractions to fill the morning and early portion of the afternoon. A baseball game would be played on the new diamond at the fair grounds; there would be a balloon ascension and other features. By the fourth, all horses that will be raced this summer, will be in condition and no doubt a large entry list for trotting, pacing and running events could be secured.

GERMAN SOCIETY IS PLANNING BANQUET

Will Initiate Fifteen Candidates June First—State Picnic to Be Held Here This Summer.

On Friday evening, June 1, the Bowler City Verein, "Gegenseitige Unterstuetzungsgesellschaft," will initiate candidates with elaborate ceremonies. Messrs. Rubel and Holtman of Milwaukee, President and Vice President of the Supreme Lodge, will be present and assist. After the regular work there will be a social and banquet and elaborate plans for the supper are being made. Janesville has been the scene of the state picnic of this society for two years now and there was some talk of holding the festivities in Milwaukee this year. It being impossible to get a Sunday excursion the project was abandoned and the picnic will as usual be held here. The date has not yet been set nor any definite arrangements been made. All members of the society are requested to be present at the next regular meeting.

NORTHWESTERN HAS MORE NEW TRAINS

New Time Card Announces Better Connections With Milwaukee and Madison.

New time cards on all division of the Northwestern road have been arranged and go into effect at various hours of the day tomorrow. Some very important changes in trains have been made and a number of these effect the local schedule for the bettering of passenger traffic between here and Milwaukee and here and Madison.

The Rockford-Watertown passenger, which was due in and out of Janesville at 8:20 a. m. has been changed to a Rockford-Milwaukee run, making a through train from here to the Cream City. The time of arrival in Milwaukee is 10:50 making the run from here to there just two hours, and a half. This train does not come back over the same route but leaving Milwaukee at four in the afternoon goes to Madison arriving at seven and then coming to Janesville at 8:20. Thus the Watertown-Rockford run, arriving at 3:12 p. m. is annulled but an extra and later train from Madison is added. Formerly the last train from the Capital City arrived at 6:45

p. m., having departed at 5:45. This of course makes poor time for Milwaukee to the Bowler City but by leaving the state metropolis at 6:00 p. m. connections can be made at Jefferson Junction with the Fond du Lac train and arrive here at 8:25. Formerly to make these connections one had to leave Milwaukee at half past five.

The Sunday to-and-fro Koshkonong will be put in service Sunday, June 3, leaving Janesville at seven in the morning and returning at 6:45 in the evening.

SPENT MUCH TO GET GOOD BALL DIAMOND

Nearly Two Hundred Dollars Expended by Eagles—First Game Tomorrow Afternoon.

Close to two hundred dollars has been spent by the local aerie of Eagles in preparing their new baseball field at the fair grounds. The place has been leveled and rolled, a wire netting placed on a portion of the grandstand, new bases and bats purchased, etc. The diamond will be used for the first time tomorrow afternoon, when the Eagles will play their fraternal nine from Beloit. Wells will pitch for the locals and Wendt catch.

Double-Header on Bunker Hill

Two games will be played on Bunker Hill tomorrow afternoon. The Second Ward team, captained by Fred Hutchinson, will meet the White Sox and the Blackhaws will cross bats with the Fourth Ward Lions.

In the Junior League

At Athletic park today two games in the Junior League were played. This morning the Riverview Park club, despite the fact that it recently lost two of its stars, dealt out defeat to the Christian Templars of the Baptist church. The game was close, however, the score standing 12 and 9. This afternoon the Knights of the Holy Cross of Trinity church are struggling with the Y. M. C. A. nine.

Play at Yost's Park

The Slammers of Beloit, whom the Janesville Red Sox will meet at Yost's park tomorrow afternoon, comprise one of the best teams in Beloit and a hot contest is in prospect. The local players will leave for the grounds at two o'clock, making the trip on the Interurban.

Red Sox Versus Eagles

A week from tomorrow the Janesville Red Sox and the Janesville Eagles will play at Eagle park.

Iman of the town of Bradford, brought to determine the validity and collect on a note for $300, brought in a verdict last yesterday afternoon for the defendant. TO HONOR BIRTHDAY STARS AND STRIPES

June 14 Has Been Apointed as Day for Flying National Emblem in This Country.

The 129th anniversary of the adoption of the stars and stripes as the flag of the United States will be observed all over the country Thursday, June 14. During recent years flag day has come to be recognized more and more as a national anniversary, and every year this day is celebrated in all the schools of the country.

In an effort to promote a general observance of Flag day throughout the United States the American Flag association has issued a circular addressed to the mayor of each American city, to the American press, to the officers and members of all American patriotic societies, to all school officers and school teachers, to all our fellow citizens, as follows:

"The American Flag association in accordance with its custom of the past five years respectfully reminds you that Thursday, June 14, 1906, will be the 129th anniversary of the adoption of the stars and stripes as the flag of the United States. During recent years flag day has come to be recognized more and more as a national anniversary, and we earnestly request your co-operation in securing the widest possible observance this year.

"Mayors of cities are requested to order flags to be displayed upon all municipal buildings, and by formal proclamation to invite their fellow citizens to do the same upon private buildings.

"Editors are requested to make editorial announcement, and to publish articles upon the subject of the flag; and to request the public to display the national colors on June 14, 1906.

"School officers and teachers are requested to arrange for patriotic exercises celebrating the day, and teach the story of the flag and what it represents, and have the young people pledge their fealty and loyalty to it.

"American patriotic societies are urged to assist in stirring up enthusiasm by public appeals through local mediums, and to arrange observance of the anniversary.

"All American citizens are earnestly invited to join in the public recognition of the birthday of the emblem of our nationality.

"On the fourteenth day of June, 1777, congress enacted what the flag of the thirteen United States should be, and April 4, 1818, further enacted that on the admission of a new state into the union, one star be added to the union of the flag, and there are now forty-five stars on the flag.

"The flag has become the symbol of a great nation, and has been carried to the utmost parts of the earth, proclaiming human liberty. Americans can not fall of a feeling of pride and satisfaction nor restrain the swelling of patriotism in the breast, when we contrast the meaning of ours and other flags.

"We earnestly exhort our citizens to join in making the flag day an event, and its celebration in 1906, a great one. Let us from one end of our land to the other, fling the stars and stripes to the breeze on June 14, 1906. May it greet the rising and salute the setting sun, and float all day long from every church edifice, school building, and public and private and however humble, throughout the entire land."

Coming in

The Brethren

By RIDER HAGGARD,

Author of "She," "King Solomon's Mines," Etc.

COPYRIGHT, 1903-1904, BY RIDER HAGGARD

So together they walked through the crowd of those feasters that remained, for most of them had already left the hall, who made way, not without reverence, for the brethren of this new star of beauty, on to the terrace and from the terrace into the garden. Under many of the trees and in tufts set about here and there were spread, and to them came men who had drunk of the wine of the feast and east themselves down to sleep.

"Are they drunk?" asked Wulf.

"It would seem so," answered Godwin.

Yet these men appeared to be mad rather than drunk, for they walked "Pledge, I command you, this flower of flowers."

steadily enough, but with wide set, dreamy eyes, nor did they seem to sleep upon the rugs, but lay there staring at the sky and muttering with their lips, their faces steeped in a strange, unholy rapture. "Sometimes they would rise and walk a few paces with outstretched arms till the arms closed as though they clasped something invisible, to which they bent their heads to babble awhile. Then they walked back to their rugs again, where they remained silent."

"Step out, brother," said Wulf, "for at the very sight of those rugs I grow sleepy."

So they walked on toward the sound of a waterfall, and when they came to it drank and bathed their faces and heads.

"This is better than their wine," said Wulf. They reached an open sward where there were no rugs and no sleepers. "Now," said Wulf, halting, "tell me what does all this mean?"

"Are you deaf and blind?" asked Godwin. "Cannot you see that yonder fount is in love with Rosamund and means to take her, as he well may do?"

Wulf groaned aloud, then answered:

"I swear that first I will kill him, even though we must keep him company."

"Among those ornaments that hung about the waist of Rosamund I saw a jeweled kiltie," answered Godwin sadly. "She can be trusted to use it if need be, and after that we can be trusted to do our worst."

As they spoke they had loitered toward the edge of the glade and, halting there, stood silent till presently from under the shadow of a cedar tree appeared a solitary white-robed woman. It was Masouda.

"Follow me, brothers Peter and John," she said in a laughing whisper. "I have words to say to you." And she lifted ahead of them.

Silently as a wraith she went, now appearing in the open spaces, now vanishing beneath the dense gloom of cedar boughs, till she reached a naked, lonely rock which stood almost upon the edge of the gulf. "Opposite to this rock was a great mound, such as ancient peoples reared over the bodies of their dead, and in the mound, cunningly hidden by growing shrubs, a massive door. Masouda took a key from her girdle and, having looked around to see that they were alone, unlocked it."

"Enter," she said, pushing them before her.

They obeyed and through the darkness within heard her close the door.

"Now we are safe awhile," she said, with a sigh, "or at least so I think. But I will lead you to where there is more light."

Then, taking each of them by the hand, she went forward along a smooth incline till presently they saw the moonlight and by it discovered that they stood at the mouth of a cave which was fringed with bushes. Running up from the depths of the gulf below to this opening was a ridge of shoulder of rock, very steep and narrow.

"See the only road that leads from the citadel of Masvat save that across the bridge," said Masouda.

"A bad one," answered Wulf, staring downward.

"Are yet houses trained to rocks can follow it. At its foot is the bottom of the gulf and a mile or more away to the left a deep dell which leads to the top of the mountain and to freedom. Will you not take it now? By tomorrow's dawn you might be far away."

"And where would the Lady Rosamund be?" asked Wulf.

"In the lair of the Lord Shama—that is, very soon," she answered coolly.

"Oh, say it not!" he exclaimed, clasping her arm, while Godwin leaned back against the wall of the cave.

"Why should I hide the truth? Have you no eyes to see that he is enamored of her loveliness, like others? Listen! A while ago my master, Singa, dreamed to lose his queen—how, we need not ask, but it is said that she swore him. Now, as he must by law, he mourns for her a month, from full moon to full moon. But on the day after the full moon—that is, the third morning from now—he may wed again, and I think there will be a marriage. Till then, however, your sister is safe."

"Therefore," said Godwin, "within that time she must either escape or die."

"There is a third way," answered Masouda, shrugging her shoulders. "She might stay and become the wife of Singa."

Wulf muttered something between his teeth, then stepped toward her threateningly, saying:

"Rescue her or—"

"Stand back, Pilgrim John," she said, with a laugh. "If I rescue her—which indeed would be hard—it will not be for fear of your great sword."

"What then, will you, Masouda?" asked Godwin for a said voice. "To promise you money would be useless even if we could."

"I am glad that you spared me that insult," she replied, with flashing eyes, "for then there had been an end. Now, hear me and forget no word. At present you are in favor with Singa, who believes you to be the brother of the lady Rosamund, not her lover, but from the moment he hears the truth your doom is sealed. Now, what the Frank Loeche knows, that the At-Jebal may know at any time—and will know if those should meet."

"Meanwhile you are free, so tomorrow while you ride about the garden, as you will do, take note of the tall rock that stands without and how to reach it from any point, even in the dark. Tomorrow also, when the moon is up, they will lead you to the narrow bridge to ride your horses to and fro there that they may learn not to fear it in the light. When you have stabled them go into the gardens and come bitterly unobserved, as the place being so far away you can do. The guards will let you pass, thinking only that you desire to drink a cup of wine with some fair friend, as is the custom of our guests. Enter this cave—here is the key—and she handed it to Wulf—and if I be not there await me. Then I will tell you my plan. If I have any, but until then I must scheme and think. Now it grows late—go."

"And you, Masouda," said Godwin doubtfully. "How will you escape this place?"

"By a road you do not know of, for I am mistress of the secrets of this city. Still, I thank you for your thought of me. Go, I say, and lock the door behind you."
